My weight is now 142 pounds and my physician has pronounced me perfectly sound. not risen a tenth of a cent a pound in a month, beef packers in New York advanced quotations to retail butchers one-fourth and one-half a cent a pound to-day. The retailers were obliged to following suit by increasing all prices from a half to a cent a pound.

The packers say that they have not jumped the price, but dozens of retail butchers this morning said that at the packing houses they were met with new demands, and the new prices had to be met before they could obtain their requirements. The packing houses produced their daily quotation sheet, which is sent to all newspapers, and this bore out their contention that prices were the same. The butchers said the quotations were merely for the public eye and not for buyers. The fact remains that the retail price of beef has been increased again, and the people are once more digging into their pockets for the small profits for dealers or wholesalers.

While the butchers were taking their whack at the public, apparently secure in the knowledge that "investigating committees and officials" have reported that no prosecutions can lie, dealers in flour and sugar were also figuring on more profits. As a result flour jumped an additional 10 cents to-day, and sugar is selling at a wholesale advance of one-fourth of a cent. Last Saturday 80,000 bags of sugar, weighing 8,000,000 pounds, were shipped to Greece by American sugar interests. The sale was made on August 18, after the shortage in sugar became known here. BIG CARGOES BEING SHIPPED ABROAD.

At the same time, 49,000 barrels of flour, sufficient to last New York for a week, was sent to England. Last week from New York alone more than 1,328,000 bushels of wheat were shipped to Europe. Most of it was sent by American speculators, who will clear profits of 10 and 15 cents a bushel.

Wholesalers in groceries to-day united in blaming alike the war and what they termed "the yellow press" for the recent radical advances in food prices and the rapid speculation that has forced staples to higher quotations than have been known here since the civil war. In a "statement of plain facts," Oscar B. McGlasson, President of the Wholesale Grocers' Association of America, attacks both newspapers and officials who ordered investigations and hotly defends the wholesalers.

BROOKLYN PRICES LOWER THAN NEW YORK.

Sugar was the commodity considered to-day in the inquiry into the high price of food being conducted before Justice Benedict in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, by District Attorney Crosey. All the explanations offered by witnesses were, in effect, that the rise in the price of sugar was entirely natural under the conditions, the war in Europe being blamed.

Lorenzo D. Armstrong, Vice-President of the Fagardo Sugar Company of Porto Rico, said: "I think sugar will go higher. There is a short crop this year and there will be a shorter one next. There is a shortage now of three million tons in Porto Rico and Louisiana."

Martin E. Goetzinger of the Arbuckle Bros. refinery, testified that there were only 60,000 tons of raw sugar on hand now. "There is an actual shortage this year," he continued, "but what affects prices most is the potential shortage owing to the European war. Then, too, there is an additional 30 points for war insurance."

Mr. Crosey said that he had invesigated the statement that Brooklyn grocers had been selling sugar lower than New York merchants and found it to be true.

"It is just that Brooklyn dealers are more patriotic than their New York brethren, I expect," said Justice Benedict.

Honest dealers all over New York are hailing the opening of the four new city markets to-morrow with delight because, they say, the markets will expose the wholesalers at their tricks. They do not believe the markets will seriously affect the small storekeeper.

The Department of Health wants to know why Americans continue to use wheat flour when rye is equally nutritious and very much cheaper. Why should we not learn, like the Scotch, to eat oatmeal, which is much cheaper? Or why disdain delicious and wholesome cornmeal.

The Health department shows the equal value in food units of these substitutes for flour.
